The History of the Devil (Fantasia Film Festival 2013)

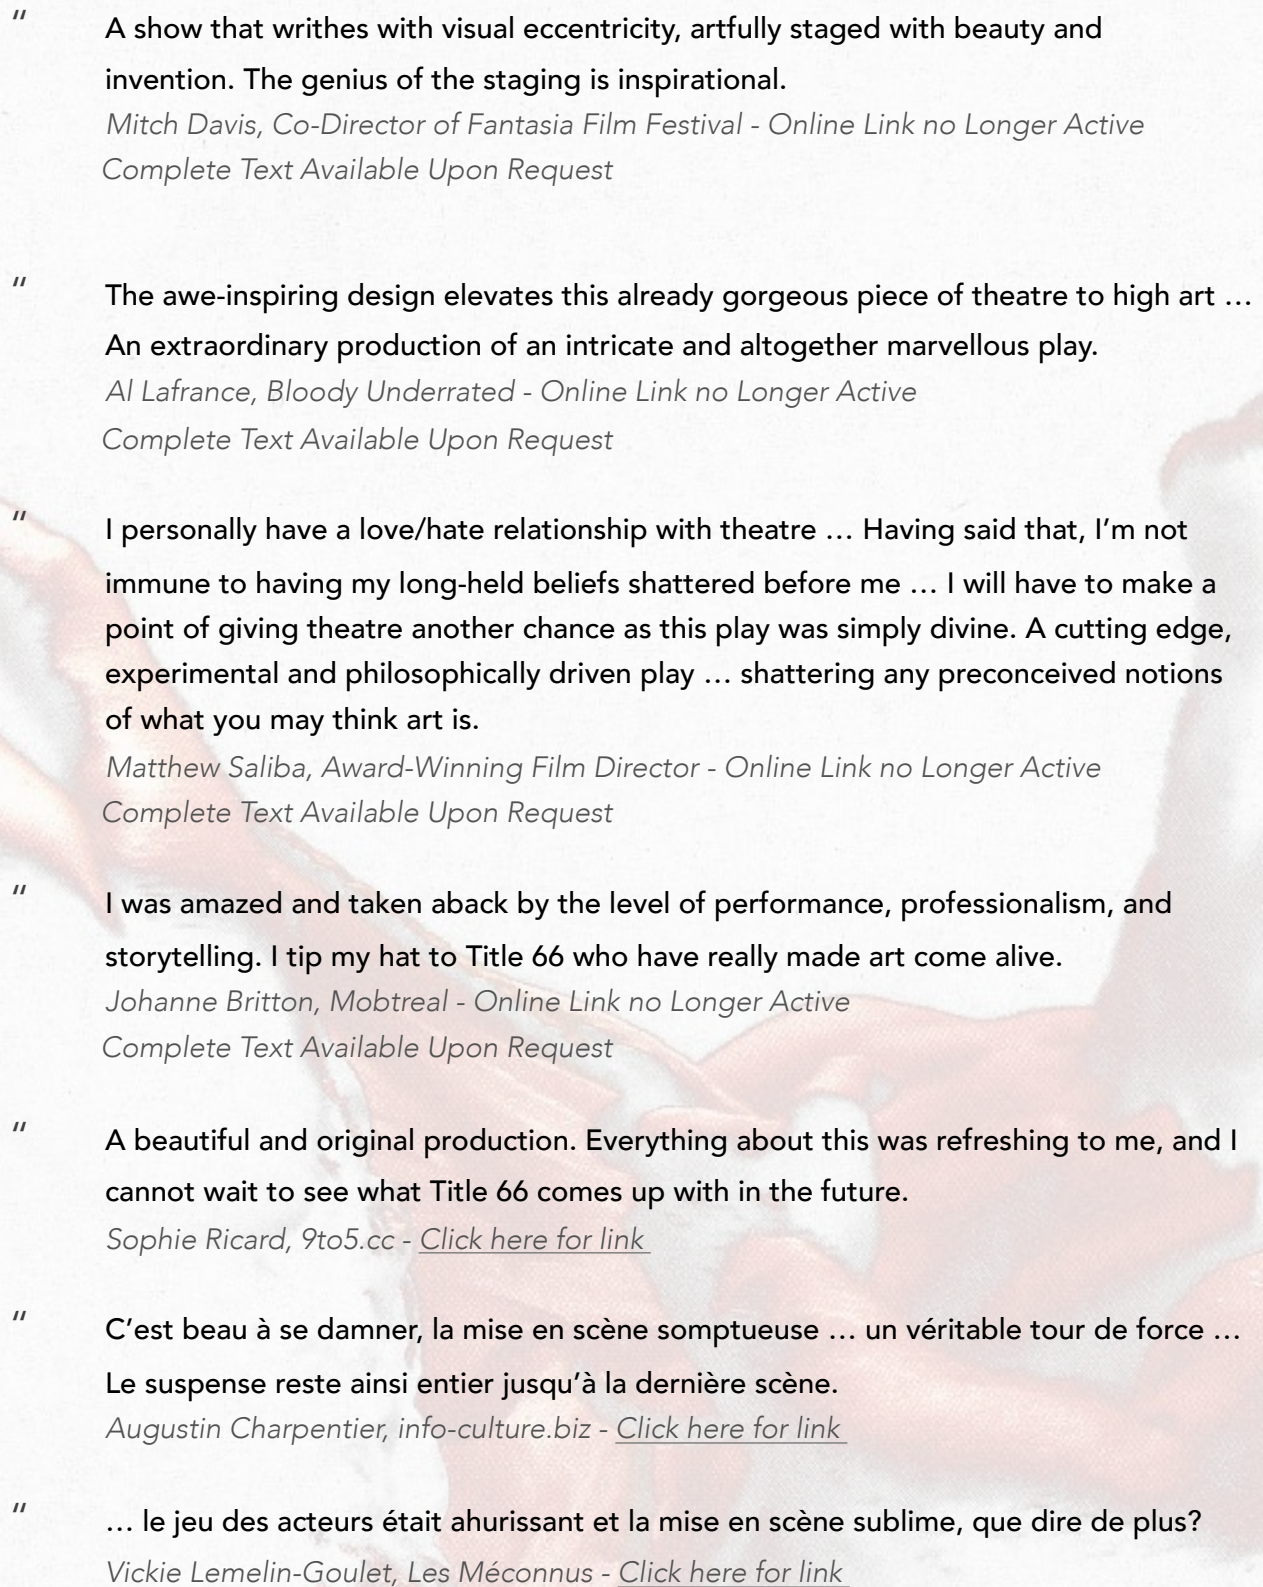

directed by Jeremy Michael Segal

" Nothing short of brilliant ... An assured and confident production that older, wiser, and more experienced troupes could easily have floundered. This may have been the most memorable piece of storytelling at the 2013 Fantasia Film Festival.

Greg Christie, Screen Anarchy - Click here for link

" This wasn't Fantasia's first theatre production, but it was certainly their most accomplished ... I was engrossed ... Local theatre troupes should take note: the bar has been raised.

- " A show that writhes with visual eccentricity, artfully staged with beauty and invention. The genius of the staging is inspirational.

- " I personally have a love/hate relationship with theatre ... Having said that, I'm not immune to having my long-held beliefs shattered before me ... I will have to make a point of giving theatre another chance as this play was simply divine. A cutting edge, experimental and philosophically driven play ... shattering any preconceived notions of what you may think art is.

Le suspense reste ainsi entier jusqu'à la dernière scène.
